Vol. 3—No. 92 GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, APRIL 17, 1923 THREE CENTS

Our City Comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

The City Council of Tomorrow and Its Many Tasks

SPENCER ROBINSON was re-elected mayor of Glendale at the council meeting last evening by a unanimous vote. While we were in favor of making a change, one of the powers of the council is that of naming its own presiding officer, and its action closes the matter.

For the new city council we bespeak our readers' support. The position as a councilman of a city growing as rapidly as Glendale is a most difficult one and when business men are willing to sacrifice in order to serve, as long as their endeavors are conscientious, they should be supported.

* * *

THE old council looked upon us as being against them. This was not a fact. It is the duty of a newspaper to voice the wishes of the majority of the citizens, and we feel that we have done this. If acts of the council are against the wishes of the voters, they must expect censure. Individually, we have no feeling against a single member of the old council.

We look towards tomorrow, with a feeling that lessons have been learned and the people may rest assured that their interests will be well taken care of.

The many vexing situations which come up day by day will have to be solved and with the co-operation of the citizens of Glendale they may be best answered.

* * *

THE resignation of Hartley Shaw as attorney for the city of Glendale is to be regretted. Mr. Shaw is an able attorney and especially qualified to act as a city attorney, as he is considered an authority on municipal law.

Mr. Shaw has been considering taking this step for some time. We were in hopes he would reconsider the matter. Coming at a time when the new council has just been organized is also to be regretted. We would suggest that Mr. Shaw be urged to withdraw his resignation and continue his good work.

We recognize the office of city attorney is a trial, but knowing Mr. Shaw as a public-spirited citizen, we feel he might be prevailed upon to continue in office.

ANOTHER step towards a sewer for Glendale was taken yesterday when a bill was passed by the state senate authorizing Glendale to construct an outlet for its sewage system. This bill is now practically certain of becoming a law, as it was passed by the assembly some days ago.

This bill was presented by Assemblyman Weller of Glendale. It looks now as if the Glendale problem would be taken care of within a short time.

A syndicate of Glendale business men has taken over the purchase of the airport tract of 33 acres, following the rescinding of the contract with Mr. and Mrs. Radcliff by the city councilmen last Thursday.

HIGH ORATORS ARE BUSY PAIR

To Try for Honors in the Central League Against Monrovia

Betty Higgins and Paul Cunningham are busy young people and will be hard at work between now and Wednesday, April 18, in preparation for the championship debate of the Central League to be held at South Pasadena, in which they will compete for final league honors with representatives of Monrovia High. They were winners on both the affirmative and the negative side when Glendale and Monrovia clashed before, and their chances this time are considered excellent. They will uphold the negative of the question, "Resolved, that the peace and safety of Europe demand the destruction of the National Political Independence of the Turkish People."

If they win not only will the pennant come to Glendale High but one of them will receive the $50 allotted to the speaker on each side making the highest score, the money to be used for scholarship purposes.

THE WEATHER

San Francisco: Rain this afternoon and tonight; Wednesday clearing; fresh southwesterly winds.

All Valleys: Rain this afternoon and tonight, Wednesday clearing; moderate winds mostly southerly.

Southern California: Unsettled and probably threatening tonight and Wednesday; moderate southwesterly winds.

ROBINSON AGAIN TO HEAD CITY

Is Re-elected as Mayor Without Dissenting Vote in Council

BODY REORGANIZED

Councilmen Lapham and Stephenson Retire From Office

Spencer Robinson, 1234 East Windsor road, who for the past two years has served as mayor of Glendale, was unanimously re-elected to that position last night. Mr. Robinson did not vote.

The election of Mr. Robinson to the position of mayor followed the reorganization of the council. Just prior to the vote taken with regard to this office, Councilmen Stephenson and Lapham retired from the board and the new members were sworn in.

As soon as Councilmen Hall and Horn had taken their seats, Mayor Robinson said:

"According to the requirements of the charter of this city each council is supposed to elect one of its members as mayor of the city. I will, therefore, step down and out and the selection of a mayor for the coming two years may take place. Will City Clerk Van Wie kindly take my place as chairman of this meeting?"

Mayor Robinson then took his place among the other councilmen and City Clerk Van Wie took the mayor's seat and proceeded to carry on the meeting.

Councilman C. E. Kimlin then rose and said:

"As Mayor Robinson steps down this evening and before a motion in the way of selecting his successor is made, there are a few things I wish to say.

"I want to thank Mayor Robinson for the faithful work he has done as mayor of this city during the past two years. Few people realize the time and effort he has spent in the interest of Glendale. Before he became mayor of this city he had a well-paying real estate business. The duties of his office have taken so much of his time that he has discontinued his business entirely.

"I can truthfully say that I have enjoyed working with Mr. Robinson. He is rather rough on the exterior, but he has one of the grandest and biggest hearts in the world. I appreciate the work he has done for Glendale.

"The charter doesn't provide for the election of a new mayor at this time, but Mr. Robinson's act in volunteering to step down and out is typical of big heartedness. He thinks it is nothing but proper that as the council is being reorganized the new board should elect a new mayor, if that is desired.

"I take pleasure at this time of moving that this new board elect Spencer Robinson as mayor of the city of Glendale."

"Before there is a second to this motion," said Councilman Davis, "I want to say a few words. As mayor of Glendale, Mr. Robinson has been untiring in his efforts wherever the interests of the city were at stake. He has spent far more in gasoline in the interest of Glendale than he has received as salary as a member of this board. He has driven his machine night and day and has carried the rest of the councilmen miles and miles, so that the good of the city might be taken care of, and he doesn't use any city gasoline, either. He has carried us to Los Angeles and the other nearby cities, in the board's fight for bus lines, sewers and other necessities.

"Mayor Robinson has a wonderful personality. He can approach the biggest of them, from the state railroad commission down. He gets what he goes after and he doesn't hurt anyone's feelings in obtaining the desired result. Therefore, I am glad to second Councilman Kimlin's motion."

The vote that returned Spencer Robinson to the office of mayor of Glendale was then taken.

In his speech of acceptance, Mayor Robinson said:

"I appreciate deeply the honor you gentlemen have conferred upon me. My aim and desire is to work with this council just as harmoniously as I have worked with the last one. In my actions in connection with the different things that come before this board I do not rely solely upon my own judgment and the advice of the members of this council. I have quite a number of the leading business men of the city to whom I go for advice when the big question comes up. I feel that that is the best way to secure a well-rounded opinion on any subject.

"I have given much time to the affairs of Glendale during the past two years, and especially to the sewer question. At this time it seems as though we have this sewer problem about solved. The council of Los Angeles is favorable to Glendale's proposition, the finance committee has reported fa-

ETERNAL TRIANGLE DEVELOPS ON THE BEACH IN OREGON

(By United Press)

SEASIDE, Oregon, April 17. Here is a new version of that eternal triangle—the monkey, the cat and the chestnuts. It has for its angles a sea gull, a sea duck and a crab—in fact, several crabs. In a manner of speaking it was a co-operative enterprise—for the gull!

Pedestrians on the Broadway bridge saw the duck dive and bring up a luscious young crab. The gull swooped down on the unfortunate sea fowl and despite great protestations of sorrow on the part of the latter wrested away the crab and swallowed it with loud expressions of pleasure. The operation was repeated. In fact for two hours the stupid sea duck continued to bring up crabs to satisfy the ultimate consumer—the gull. The duck got the crabs and the gull got the duck's goat—also the crabs.

NATIONAL LEAGUE OPENS SEASON IN THE EAST

Familiar Signs Appear Through Many of the Cities

[By Associated Press]

The familiar sign, "Baseball Today," came into view today on street cars and busses as players and fans in four major league cities prepared for the opening games this afternoon of the National League schedule. The time honored customs of band playing, flag raising and throwing of the first ball by the mayors were expected to be carried out in various cities.

President John Heydler of the National League was the guest of the Chicago Cubs in the initial clash here with the Pittsburgh Pirates at the Cub's reconstructed park.

K. M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, was at Boston the guest of the Boston Braves, and Christy Mathewson, for the opening there with the New York Giants, champions of the world.

Fair and warmer was the general weather indication in most of the cities.

BROOKLYN-PHILADELPHIA

NEW YORK, April 17.—Ebbet's Field, Brooklyn, is the local stage on which the National League is to open the 1923 pennant race today, with the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Philadelphia Quakers as the battling teams.

BRAVES VS. GIANTS

BOSTON, April 17.—Braves Field opens this afternoon with the New York Giants starting the season against the Boston Nationals.

REDS ENTERTAIN CARDINALS

CINCINNATI, April 17.—The season's opening clash between the St. Louis Cardinals and Cincinnati Reds at Redland Field this afternoon, found Pete Donohue, star righthander, as Manager Moran's choice of pitchers. Branch Rickey, chief of the Cardinals, was undecided until the last minute whether he would send Doak or Pfeiffer to the mound.

K. C. CARNIVAL PLANS ARE ON THE 'HOME STRETCH'

Big Event on Flower Street Opens This Evening in L. A.

Preparations for the Knights of Columbus Carnival of Nations are on the "home stretch" and in full swing, as tonight when the fete is to begin in Knights of Columbus auditorium, 612 South Flower street, Los Angeles, draws near.

The carnival, which is to augment the Knights of Columbus welfare fund and make possible more extensive social service work in this and surrounding cities, will last five days.

Different programs of one hour's duration each, are to be presented during the nights of the carnival. The bazaar-like arrangement of quaintly mysterious booths will continue the same throughout, however.

A plea from the skies that Los Angeles support the carnival was made Monday afternoon by Jimmy Murphy, automobile racer, who piloted an airplane from which Frank J. Sullivan showered 500,000 advertising handbills into Los Angeles and Glendale

The carnival is being staged under the direction of prominent men and women. The Knights of Columbus executive committee in charge of the affair is as follows:

Frank J. Sullivan, chairman; James H. Hughes, secretary; Phillip O'Brien, treasurer, and W. H. Campbell, John T. Curtin, W. L. Fitzpatrick, Elmer D. Krug, A. J. Vaughan, Jack Oberle, Walter Paul, William Ahern, J. Walter Clune, J. H. Anderson, W. H. Termath, Nick Fries and Joe Brady.

TUESDAY FOLKS TO MARK MAY

Carnival of Months to Be Staged on Fifth at Clubhouse

NON-SECTION EVENT

Unique Program to Be Given at the All-Day Celebration

The month of May is to be ushered in by the members and friends of the Tuesday Afternoon Club of Glendale with a "Carnival of Months" to be held on May 5. There will be booths suggestive of the twelve months of the year, where it will be possible to buy anything from hot waffles, pumpkin pie and coffee to gifts for a bride or Christmas presents for the children. Plans are being worked out by the non-section members, under the direction of Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, chairman of ways and means.

A very unique program is to be given in the club auditorium at 8 o'clock the evening of May 5, for which some especially fine talent has been secured. Miss Davina Wood, who has danced for the local lodge of Elks, the Rotary Club and is now filling an engagement at a Los Angeles theatre, will dance. Master Howard Kenneth Fraser, dancer of considerable promise and who is the son of Harry Fraser, a bagpiper of exceptional ability, will do some Scotch dances. An Irish reel will be presented by Miss Margaret McCubben, who has danced for the Lions Club of Los Angeles, Grauman's Theatre and also at the Alexandria and Ambassador hotels. Master Douglas Morrison, a native of Scotland, who is a prize dancer and has any number of medals will sing. He is considered by critics of Scottish dances as one of the finest Scotch dancers in Southern California.

There will be a number of Scotch songs featured, which will be presented by Francis J. W. Henry of Glendale and also Thomas G. McDougall. Bagpipe music will be furnished by Messrs. Harry Fraser, Alex MacDonald, Thomas G. McDougall and Master Alex McDougall. The latter is a Glendale high school lad and has the distinction of being the only young boy bagpiper appearing before the public in Southern California and is quite a favorite with radio fans. The Scotch reel consists of Douglas Morrison, Margaret McCubben, Davina Wood and Kenneth Fraser, accompanied on the pipes by Alex McDougall. This feature is arranged through the courtesy of Alex McDonald. In addition to this there will be Scotch airs played by a harp soloist, whose name will be announced later.

REV. SMART HAS RESOLUTION FOR CITY COUNCIL

The city council of Glendale will buy no more land with the money derived from taxes, if Rev. A. B. Smart has his way. At last night's meeting Rev. Smart introduced the following resolution, which was placed on file:

"Resolver that it is the sense of this meeting that our mayor, city manager and city council should not use their position, influence and city funds and taxes in helping to exploit real estate schemes and speculations.

"We do not elect them for that busines sand we emphatically object to it."

THE GLENDALE ELKS STAGE GOOD MATCHES

Members of the Glendale Elks' lodge managed to dispatch business at their regular meeting Monday night and begin their "jinks" night program in good season. It consisted of four boxing events of four rounds each, put on by Los Angeles talent, which proved very satisfying to the 450 or more members and visitors from Los Angeles, Pasadena and Huntington Park.

NEW HIGH SEATING CAPACITY IS DISCUSSED

This morning a representative of Architect John C. Austin's office is working with Principal Moyse on details of the seating of the auditorium in the new school. The size, type, and arrangement of seats must be carefully worked out with due regard to the ventilating system by means of which fresh air which has been sprayed and either warmed or cooled, will be pumped into the hall and diffused through caps in the floor beneath the seats. It is the most modern system in use for ventilating and heating and will be as good as is to be found in any of the fine auditoriums in Los Angeles.

They are also working on a few changes in the cafeteria which will spell improvement and which must be worked out before the plumbing is installed.

SANTA MONICA BOULEVARD IS MAKING WAY

Meeting Is Held for the Project at Sawtelle

The regular meeting of the Santa Monica Boulevard Board of Trade was held last night at 7:30 o'clock in the Women's Clubhouse, Sawtelle, W. I. Castanion presiding.

There was a large attendance of upward of a hundred, comprised of prominent local citizens and the various representatives of the chambers of commerce and other civic bodies extending from Glendale to Santa Monica.

Much enthusiasm was shown in the proposed development of Santa Monica boulevard and its projected extension to Glendale and San Bernardino. Plans were laid for the modifying of the grade between Sawtelle and Beverly, including such widening as may be necessary to provide a uniform width for the boulevard throughout.

The proposal from the Sawtelle chamber of commerce to erect a new Pacific Electric depot at Sawtelle was heartily endorsed. Also much gratification was expressed at the receipt of a letter from the S. P. R. R. in which it was stated that the main entrance to the new Glendale depot would be located on Brand boulevard. This will facilitate and make more attractive the new Glendale depot to the residents in the western part of the city of Los Angeles, being in direct line by way of the new Hyperion-Santa Monica boulevard.

The proposition of placing an amendment to the opening and widening act of 1903, outlined by the secretary, A. J. Barnes, was heartily endorsed as being a step forward in the consummating of many new highway projects.

Report from Mr. Rowley containing the endorsement of the San Fernando Valley civic bodies and chambers of commerce for the new viaduct and bridge across the Los Angeles river on Glendale boulevard was received and a committee appointed to co-operate with the valley organizations.

Matters pertaining to relief from storm water on Santa Monica boulevard were referred to a special committee for immediate solution.

Many reports of a marked increase in the movement of real property along the boulevard were made and expression was had regarding the enviable notoriety which is accruing from the activities of this organization.

The next meeting is scheduled to be held at Cole's Hall, El Centro and Santa Monica boulevard, on April 30, 1923, at 7:30 o'clock.

HIGH CLASSES TO PARADE FRIDAY MORNING

Today plans will be worked out at Glendale high school for allowing classes to get together to plan their parades for the oratorical to be held Friday morning at the Glendale theatre, and Thursday there will probably be rehearsals of the pageants planned.

Tickets for the oratorical have been priced at 35 cents. This is a special event which is depended upon to replenish the treasury of the student body, and student tickets are therefore not available. As it is the big event of the year, every student loyal to the school and his class, wants to participate. The tickets have been distributed to presidents of the four classes and sales are said to be going very well. Any that are left unsold by Friday morning will be available for the general public, but if every student attends, the auditorium will be filled.

LEGION GETS ITS TWO ACRES FOR HOMESITE

Council Passes Resolution in Accordance With the Recent Election

At its meeting last night the Glendale city council passed a resolution conveying to members of the American Legion two acres of land in the northern part of the city for the location of the Legion's home. This is the land voted to the Legion by the people of Glendale at the last election.

One share of stock in the Verdugo Canyon Water company, which has been held in trust by Dwight Stephenson, was transferred to Councilman Davis.

A monthly financial report of the city, up to March 31, was handed to Councilmen Hall and Horn. This was done on request of Councilman Hall.

W. J. MacMillan appeared before the board with the request that the council construct a concrete bridge over the wash at Patterson avenue. This matter was held over for one week.

The matter of the establishment of a business district on the property of Dr. Crocker in Verdugo Canyon was continued one week.

AIRPORT SYNDICATE IS FORMED

Takes Over 33 Acres Recently Purchased by Glendale

CITY RESCINDS ACT

Roy L. Kent Company Is to Manage Leasing of Tract

A syndicate has taken over the airport of 33 acres, recently purchased by the city following the rescinding of the contract by the city council last Thursday. The syndicate will refund the purchase money paid to the Radcliffs by the councilmen and assume the original contract.

This syndicate consists of Roy L. Kent Company, Dr. T. C. Young, W. E. Hewitt, A. L. Baird, William Truitt, J. H Crawford, Peter L. Ferry, A. R. Eastman and A. H. Lapham. The property is being taken over by these men on the original terms. The money that was paid by the city as initial payment on this property will be repaid by these men into the city treasury and the remainder of the obligation of the contract will be assumed by this syndicate. The money necessary and the papers were placed in escrow this morning.

Preparations are now being made by the Roy L. Kent company, which is business manager for the syndicate and which has charge of the field, to enter into lease contracts with the various aviators and airplane manufacturers who desire space for factory and hangar purposes, and also for other manufactories.

In view of the opposition that has arisen against the establishment of a fertiliezr factory on the site, the syndicate has decided not to lease ground for that purpose.

It is the intention of the syndicate to make the airport a permanent feature. The need of a thing of this kind in Glendale is felt by every member and for this reason there will be nothing temporary about the feature.

At the meeting of the city council Thursday night the contract between the city and Mrs. Radcliff, owner of the 33 acres was rescinded, whereupon the syndicate took it up.

Credit Association Backs National Play Week Program in City

The Glendale Credit association will back the Community Service in its efforts to make National Play Week profitable to the young people of Glendale.

President Emery at the luncheon yesterday at the Glen Inn, emphasized the fact that the week should be made one of interest to all concerned, and that the Rotary club and other organizations should do their part in the matter of entertainment. He said the Rotary club would take charge of a Boy's Day, and Don Webb, secretary of the Kiwanis club, vouched the information that the Kiwanis club would assist in any way possible. Mr. Emery stated it is planned by the Rotary to give Boy's day, Friday, April 27, and he urged that the association go on record to close the business houses from 3 to 4 p. m. on that day, when the Boy Scouts will give their parade. It was voted unanimously to close for an hour on Friday, April 27, from 3 to 4 p. m.

The Credit Men's association felt that the organization should participate in the play week program to some extent and a committee consisting of Wm. Hunter, Albert Cornwell and Roy Downing was appointed as a committee to arrange for a part in the program on Monday, April 23.

CITY ATTORNEY HARTLEY SHAW RESIGNS

Declared the Work Interferred With Other Affairs

Hartley Shaw tendered his resignation as city attorney of Glendale at the meeting of the Glendale city council last night. The council referred the matter to the committee of the whole, in view of the fact that no successor to Mr. Shaw has been selected or even considered. This matter is one of the important things that the new council will have to take care of without delay.

Mr. Shaw's letter of resignation read as follows:

"For some time I have felt that the work of the city attorney of Glendale required more time, strength and attention than I could properly devote to it consistently with my other affairs.

"Accordingly, quite a while ago, I advised you of this fact and notified you of my intention to resign but you all joined in requesting me to reconsider the matter and see if some way could not be devised to relieve me of part of the work so that I could continue with it.

"I have, accordingly, made a further trial of the matter, but still find that I am unable properly to attend to the city attorney work and also my other business.

"I therefore, tender you my resignation as city attorney to take effect forthwith or as soon as you are able to appoint my successor, but not later than May 1, 1923.

"I thank you for the courtesy you have always accorded me during my term of office."

BRAND'S MACHINE MAKES RECORD FOR HEIGHTH

Flying to a height of 13,900 feet as shown on the dial of a sealed barograph, and carrying a passenger, Lieutenant E. L. Remelin established a new Pacific coast altitude record Sunday during the dedication of Clover aviation field at Central avenue and Thirtieth street.

Lieutenant Remelin was in the air 42 minutes. He made the flight in a LePere biplane, with Liberty motor, taking with him as observer, Lieutenant Dean Farran. The craft was that of L. C. Brand of Glendale.

A higher altitude would have been reached, according to the aviators, had it not been for the fact that the pump shaft became disabled.

The only ill effects experienced by the aviators was a deafness after they had landed. The air at the height they reached was not unusually cold, they said.

Lieutenant Remelin recently established the Pacific coast altitude record without passenger by going to a height of about 20,000 feet in a Nieuport scout airplane.

HALL AND HORN TAKE THEIR SEATS

Asa Hall and W. A. Horn, Recently Elected, Are Sworn Into Service

MAKE SHORT TALKS

New Men Are Greeted With Applause As They Are Seated

Before a council room well filled with interested Glendale citizens, Asa Hall and W. A. Horn, who were chosen for the office of councilmen of Glendale at the recent election, were sworn in last night. In short addresses delivered immediately after the oath of office had been administered by City Clerk Van Wie, both of the gentlemen declared their intention of working for the city of Glendale and of giving the very best there is in them for the good of this city. These words were received by enthusiastic applause on the part of the other councilmen and ex-councilmen and the other residents of Glendale who were present.

Following the administering of the oath, Mayor Robinson welcomed the new councilmen. Ex-Councilman Lapham tendered his chair to Councilman Hall and ex-Councilman Stephenson offered his seat to Councilman Horn.

In accepting the office of councilman, Mr. Hall said:

"This is the first time I have ever held a public office. I will endeavor to do what is best for the interests of Glendale, and will strive to assist in making Glendale the best managed, best financed, best governed city in the United States. I want to see Glendale the model city of this entire country.

"I will work with and assist in every way the other members of the council and will try to make Glendale the best ever."

Following Mr. Hall, Councilman Horn spoke as follows:

"I will, during the next two years, do the very best I can for the good of Glendale. I covet suggestions from the citizens of this city. To handle a city is no easy task, and we must have advice from the outside. I hope to feel that I can come to you at all times for advice on matters of public interest."

Following the reading of one set of minutes and, on motion of Councilman Stephenson, the postponement of the reading of the minutes of another meeting, Mayor Robinson called upon Councilman Davis to say a few words.

"I hardly know what to say on this occasion," said Councilman Davis. "There is one thing I want to say, however. Whether the people of Glendale as a whole do or do not appreciate what the council has done, I want to say that the remaining three of the board realize and appreciate what the two retiring members of the board have done during the past two years for the good of Glendale. The men who have been on the council with you will not forget.

"The troubles of the city are doing their bit toward putting the gray hairs on the heads of those who have served on this council. The past two years have been filled with hard work.

"When the present council took over the work of running the city, Glendale was like a 10-year-old kid in a 6-year-old pair of pants. Two years ago with the wave of prosperity the pants broke, and the members of this council sat up nights working hard to cover the nakedness of the growing city. Glendale progressed. Streets were opened, water pipes were laid, electric lines were stretched, and many other improvements were effected.

"When this council took charge, Glendale was like a Ford truck running hub deep in the mud. Today she is like a Packard truck running on a paved street. I want to say for the benefit of the retiring members of this council that I would like to quit with you. If I thought the coming two years was going to be as hard as the past two I certainly would quit.

"I want to say a word of commendation on behalf of the Glendale city organization. It is one of the finest city governments in the country. It has the finest bunch of city employees. It has as fine a fire department as you can find anywhere, and it would be hard to improve on the police department.

"From now on the work of running this city will be easy compared with the past two years. I want to tell you, retiring members of the city council, the remaining three appreciate what you have done, and some day the people in general in this city will appreciate it. I want to say good-bye and to wish you Godspeed and good luck."

Councilman Kimlin followed Councilman Davis with a few remarks:

"I want to say that I certainly am sorry to see you two members leave this council. At times we have differed, but we are still the very best of friends. And tonight

PROSPERITY IS HERE, SAYS N. Y. FINANCIER

Labor Is Generally Fully Employed and Building Continues

[By Associated Press]

NEW YORK, April 17.—There is ample basis for a sustained period of prosperity, Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City bank, declared in a statement today.

"The country has a great many needs to be satisfied," he said.

"We have not made up the deficit in construction caused by the war. If our prosperity is short lived, it will be because we tried to ride it too hard.

"We want stable business, stable prices, steady production and regular employment instead of booms and depressions. Just now labor is fully employed. Industries are producing at the highest rate, the traffic of railroads in the first quarter has been the greatest ever known and trade reports from all quarters have been excellent. We are doing all we can and additional pressure will be harmful rather than beneficial. The danger in this situation is not financial, but industrial—a too rapid increase of industrial costs.

MAYOR ROBINSON CONTINUES AT THE HEAD OF CITY

vorably upon it, as has the city attorney of Los Angeles, and the county and state officials have given their o. k. to the matter. The annexation of Eagle Rock has helped us out, for it is now up to Los Angeles to furnish sewerage for that section, and that can be done through the sewer Glendale proposes to construct.

"The next two years I expect to hustle for the interests of the city as I have in the past. I have made mistakes, but we are only human. Every person who does anything makes mistakes. The only thing we can do is to endeavor to profit by the mistakes of the past and keep plugging ahead.

"I thank you for the action you have taken. I feel wonderful tonight and I thank you all again."

At the close of Mayor Robinson's talk, Councilman Horn arose:

"As a citizen and taxpayer I want to say a few words at this time," said Mr. Horn. "I feel that the council that has held forth for the past two years has done wonderful work. I realize that the members of the council have given unstintingly of their time. They have also given of their effort and money in this work. The handling of a city the size of Glendale is not an easy task. Let the people of Glendale remember that, and I believe the former council has done remarkable work. It is easy to stand on the side lines and criticise.

"We all love this city. The Great Creator has given us a heritage here and we should try to improve it and to pass it on to our children a little better than when we found it. I want to express to the retiring board, and especially to Mr. Stephenson and Mr. Lapham my heartfelt thanks, as a citizen and taxpayer, for the way they have assisted in governing the affairs of Glendale."

Atwater School to Have May Event

Much interest is being centered in the May festival to be held at the Atwater school on May 1. A feature is to be the selection of a queen. LETTER WRITING BORNEO BONANZA

[By Associated Press]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—Letter writing is the most lucrative profession in Borneo, according to C. F. N. Wade, for the past four years British postmaster general of North Boreno, who recently arrived here.

"The letter writers," he said, "contract to read and write all the correspondence for the great multitude of natives, only a few of whom are literate. Many fortunes have been amassed by these people in this work, and today they are among the richest in the land."

WHALE HUNTING DE LUXE AT THE GLENDALE

"All the Brothers Were Valiant" Gives Chase in Film

The hunting and harpooning of what is claimed to be the largest humpbacked whale ever caught in waters off the Pacific Coast is shown in "All the Brothers Were Valiant," the Metro screen version of Ben Ames Williams' powerful sea story, now at the Glendale theatre. Irvin Willat directed the picture. The whale was landed by the crew of the "Port Saunders," northwest of Trinidad, which is the leading whaling station of the Pacific coast. It weighed 57 tons.

Director Willat and his assistant, Bud Erickson, Cameraman Bob Gurrie, Harry Teeple, and several members of the cast made the trip to Trinidad. Here they spent more than a week filming important episodes of the story.

Mr. Willat's account of two thrilling days is as follows:

"On a Wednesday morning we set out aboard the 'Port Saunders,' a 65-foot round bottomed whaler built in Stockholm and manned by a crew of eight men, chiefly Norwegians.

"That day we landed three hump-backed whales and towed them all back to port. The crew gets $100 for every whale brought into Trinidad, so you can see it must do a pretty steady business during a comparatively short season in order to make enough money to provide for the entire year.

"We had cruised about two hours from Trinidad when we sighted our first whale and gave chase. It was not difficult to get within harpooning distance—the limit on this boat was 150 feet. The gunner pulled the trigger, which released the 92-pound harpoon carrying a 9-pound charge of shrapnel. The harpoon pierced the side of the bull and, when it was well in the shrapnel exploded, quickly killing the whale.

"When it had stopped pounding the water, it was pulled alongside and lashed to the boat. Then another hollow harpoon was driven into the catch. Air was pumped into it, causing the carcass to swell like a giant balloon. In this condition it was possible to tow it back to port.

"On Friday we cruised all day without hearing the cry, 'there she blows!' Toward dusk the captain sighted two whales some distance off our port bow and we gave chase. There was a giant of a cow and a good sized bull. The captain hoped to get both.

"As soon as they saw they were being chased they fled, blowing, diving for ten minutes, rising to the surface again and leaping from thirty to forty feet into the air. Finally we closed in. The first shot drove the harpoon into the tail of the cow. The wound being slight, she went aawy, towing us along at about 10 miles an hour. We set our engines at half speed. A sperm while could tow a boat the size of the 'Port Saunders' 25 miles an hour.

"The gun was reloaded with a harpoon attached to our second coil of rope and we followed. The bull stayed close to the cow and the captain hoped to get close enough to land him as well. Not once did the bull come close enough to make a shot at him worth the risk. Finally the gunner drove the remaining harpoon into the cow and soon she was alongside. The bull fled.

The real triumph of Priscilla Dean's career is coming to the T. D. and L. theater tonight.

It is "The Flame of Life," an adaptation of one of Frances Hodgson Burnett's famous novels and was filmed under Hobart Henley's direction as a Universal-Jewel special.

With coal smeared face, a masculine rigidness in carriage, a pathetic toil droop to the shoulders and the face lines of a human beast of burden, Miss Dean has achieved a characterization of consummate artistry.

MORE SABOTAGE IN THE ESSEN DISTRICT

No injury resulted to any one from these attempts, the message adds.

NEW MEMBERS OF CITY COUNCIL TAKE SEATS

we have nothing but the best of feeling for each other.

"Few people in Glendale realize the problems that have been overcome by the council. They do not know the biggest part of the things that have taken place. Of course we have made mistakes. Only dead men do not make mistakes. We believe we are live ones.

"We have tried to do the best we know how. I want to say to the retiring members that we appreciate what you have done. I wish you success from the bottom of my heart in the work you may undertake in the future."

Councilman Lapham, one of the retiring members of the council, followed with a few remarks:

"The work of the last two years has been very interesting to me. It has been educational in many ways. I had wanted to stay on the council until several big propositions had been put over, especially the sewer problem. It seems, however, as though this question is about settled. There is also the question of the water rights in Verdugo canyon. This is practically settled. We have acquired the water of the Ross and Thom ranches without one cent of expense to the residents of the city of Glendale. The Newport company is, we believe, coming through all right. The fifteen years of litigation is ending to the benefit of the people of this city.

"In the past two years the members of this council have had their differences. Sometimes four members have been against me; at others they have been against Councilman Davis, and at still others against the other members of the council. But all of these differences have ended well—we are all the very best of friends. I want here and now to pledge my support to the new members of the council.

"I want to endorse what Mr. Davis has said about the city employees. We have the finest bunch of men and girls in the world. They are all faithful to the city in every particular. I would speak especially about the work of Col. Fraser. He same to us without any experience in police work, and the way he has handled his men and developed the police force of this city has been a revelation to every member of the council. We also have a wonderful fire department. The fact that the board of fire underwriters has decreased our insurance rates speaks louder than words can.

"I must acknowledge that I hate to leave this council. The time spent with you men has been a real pleasure and inspiration to me."

"It is with somewhat of a sense of relief that I sever my relations with the city," said Councilman Stephenson. "The work on this council has been enjoyable, trying, educational and pleasant. I am stepping down and out voluntarily.

"Perhaps one of the most pleasant memories of my work during the past two years will be the personal friendship of the men who have composed the council and of the speindid city officials from the city manager down to the newest-appointed street sweeper. I admire every one of them for their faithful work.

"I believe the city of Glendale is bound to go ahead with leaps and bounds. I can see no reason why Glendale should not progress. I wish to thank the representatives of the two local papers, Mr. Marple and Mr. Ingram, for the fair manner in which they have treated this council. Our associations with them have had the effect of strengthening our friendship, I am sure.

"This is the last political office I will ever hold. I have been councilman for two terms. The first time I was thrown in, the next I went in voluntarily—but I am through with politics forever. So far as this last term is concerned, I wonder if I am pleased to have my name go down in the records of the city. If the council's acts as judged today are to be considered I certainly do not relish the idea of appearing in the city's records. But when the smoke of battle is cleared away—say ten years from now, the acts of the council during the past two years will be more truly understood, and I shall be glad to have my name recorded.

"Let me assure the remaining members of the council of my deep, sincere friendship. As a citizen of Glendale I am at your service. If I can help at any time I shall be only too glad to do so. I will do everything I can to make Glendale great, splendid and more prosperous. My hammer is under lock and key."

Mayor Robinson said:

"I have enjoyed the work of the past two years with you four men in the interests of this city and I hate to see you go. In the past two years you have helped to make the history of the city. I will be glad to join with the new members in furthering the work of the city and to keep Glendale stepping right along."

The council then, on motion of Councilman Stephenson and second by Council Lapham, adjourned.

The taking of the oath of the new members followed.

A number of prominent residents of Glendale, including Rev. W. E. Edmonds, Peter Ferry, Roy L. Kent, commended the council for the work it had done during the past two years and offered every assistance possible to the new board.

ELECTRICITY STARTLES NATIVES OF AFRICA

[By Associated Press]

ST. LOUIS, April 17.—An electric light plant has been established in the heart of darkest Africa, according to an announcement made at the headquarters of the United Christian Missionary Society here.

The plant is at a mission maintained by the society at Bolenge, 1000 miles in the interior, where the Congo river crosses the equator. The natives were greatly surprised when the lights were switched on, the announcement stated.

THE SPANISH CLUB OF HIGH HAS BANQUET

"Tertulia," the Spanish Club of Glendale High, composed of students in the second and third-year classes, enjoyed a banquet and program Monday night in the music room of the school. The banquet, which proved a delicious meal, was prepared by students in the advanced classes of the domestic science department under Miss Ellen Hanson, and was served by Elva Bowen, Gladys Butlin and Dorothy Lindgren, the menu including fruit cocktail, veal "birds," new creamed potatoes, buttered peas, rolls and butter, crispy salad, rice charlotte, cake and coffee.

It was served by candle light and red carnations were used in the floral decoration of the tables at which places were laid for thirty-two.

The program which followed the dinner included the vocal number, "Carmena," and an encore sung by the mixed quartet, Irvin Carver, Claud Whitfield, Winifred Parker and Gertrude Heideman.

George McCauley contributed piano selections, Betty Higgins gave a talk on "Our Spanish-American Neighbors," and Loa Frances Buss read a Spanish poem.

The comedy, "Sangre Gorda," was read by Catherine Bender and George McCauley, and the instructors in Spanish, Miss Stevens, Mrs. Lambert and Miss Norris, responded to calls for impromptu speeches.

L. A. MAYOR IS INVITED TO EAGLE ROCK

Board of Trustees Held Quiet Session Last Night

The meeting of the board of trustees of Eagle Rock was uneventful last night, few complaints or important matters being brought before the board, but it was decided by the trustees to issue a letter of invitation to the mayor and council of Los Angeles to attend the trustees' meeting next Monday night. This is to be one of the biggest occasions yet to occur in connection with annexation. The plans for the evening will be announced as soon as the invitation is accepted by the Los Angeles officials.

TREATY SITE HAS VANISHED

[By Associated Press]

LOS ANGELES, Calif., April 17.—Historical societies seeking to erect a monument on the spot where the treaty was signed which gave California to the United States, would have a hard time finding the spot, it was brought out at a recent meeting of the city council, when a request to purchase land in Cahuenga pass, just outside of Hollywood, came up for debate.

The Treaty of Cahuenga, negotiated in 1845 between Col. John C. Fremont, commander of the American forces in California, and Gov. Andreas Pico, commander-in-chief of the California armies, is said to have been signed in a ranch house somewhere on the Cahuenga plain; but the ranch house has vanished, and no definite description of the site on which it stood appears to have been handed down.

That the treaty was signed, and 500,000 square miles of territory in what is now California, Nevada, Utah, Colorado, Arizona and New Mexico thereby ceded to the United States, is a fact on which chroniclers are agreed.

But as for the exact spot on which Colonel Fremont and Governor Pico met to attest the document—students of such matters shrug their shoulders and say:

"No one knows."

HOLIDAY FOR BALL OPENING

[By Associated Press]

PORTLAND, Ore., April 17.—The homecoming of the Portland club of the Pacific Coast baseball league, with the opening game scheduled with San Francisco here today, was marked by preparations for a demonstration by fans backed by state and city officials and heads of business and industrial concerns.

Gov. Walter M. Pierce proclaimed today a holiday and Mayor George L. Baker decreed a half holiday in Portland. The school board voted to close the schools this afternoon, and business houses generally agreed to cast dull care to the discard and to join in the turnout.

For several weeks committees have been at work arranging for the occasion. Many communities throughout the state obtained blocks of seats and arranged to send delegations.

Only the weatherman remained to be propitiated to make the occasion a greater success than last year, when thousands were turned away and every available bit of seating and standing room at the grounds were occupied.

ORANGE SHOW INVOKES TUT

[By Associated Press]

ANAHEIM, Calif., April 17.—Tutankhamen's tomb trappings which have exhibited such extraordinary vitality as a source of inspiration to designers of things beautiful, have again been invoked by artists working on a decorative scheme for the third annual California Valencia Orange Show, scheduled to open here May 22.

A facsimile of one of the famous arches of the Nile region will serve as the main entrance to the display tent, and all other features of the Orange Show which lend themselves to decorative treatment will be tinged with the Tutankhamen motif.

A first-class bookkeeper is one who can keep the books away from meddlesome creditors.

SUBURBAN LOTS VANISH IN NEW SALES RECORD

Forty-two Homesites Are Sold With 24 Hours of Opening

Another sales record has been established in Glendale real estate. Forty-two choice, scenic homesites facing the famous Brand's castle on Tenth street, near Western avenue, were sold within twenty-four hours after the opening announcement last Saturday, according to Alfred R. Johnson of the Suburban Realty company, subdividers of the property. He said:

"Suburban Heights, Unit No. 1, which has been proclaimed part of the most desirable and valuable property in or surrounding Glendale, has been completely surveyed and laid out in extra large scenic lots. Street work, curbs, sidewalks, light, water and gas have been installed and shade trees planted. In addition to this there are already several modern homes erected and occupied, none of them costing less than $3,500 to $5000.

"Last Saturday's sale came as an eye-opener to the residents of our community," continued Mr. Johnson. "Up to the present time we have not made any great efforts to market this property, being satisfied to let the buyers come to us rather than open up a large selling campaign and thereby increase the cost to the purchaser. We figured that our prices would allow us a reasonable profit and still leave room for today's buyers to hold the property a few months and make a nice margin of profit if they did not want to build immediately. Our ideas along these lines were undoubtedly correct as proven by last week's sales. Sunday afternoon there was not one of the original lots for sale at any price in our first unit.

"We are actively working on the improvements on Unit No. 2, and hope to be able to make an announcement by the end of this week. If we are able to complete the financial deal which we are now working on, we will offer the buying and 'profit-making' public of Glendale one of the biggest and best 'money-makers' that they ever heard of in the history of Glendale."

Since the above quoted interview with Mr. Johnson, word has been received that the Suburban Realty company has secured eight more lots, part of a parcel of fifteen purchased by one party who found that he could only afford to carry half of his original purchase. Mr. Johnson states that these eight lots will be offered by the company at the same original low prices and the same low terms as at last Saturday's sale. What is one man's misfortune is always the other's gain, especially in such valuable homesites in such a desirable, profitable location.

TRAINS HANDS TO REPLACE EARS FOR SOUND

[By Associated Press]

CHICAGO, April 17.—The development of a hand to replace the ear as an organ for distinguishing sounds, has been carried by Professor Robert H. Gault, of Northwestern University, to the point where university authorities have announced that he believes he is uncovering a new field, which may lead to direct help for the deaf.

Prof. Gault has been able to train John Crane, a student, who is not deaf, to recognize certain spoken words, through the palm of his hand. The vibrations of a voice, speaking through a long tube, are made to impinge on Mr. Crane's palm, while the sound is shut off from his ears. Professor Gault is arranging to experiment with an accousticon in the hand of a stone deaf person, with the speaker a long distance away.

BUSINESS IS BOOMING SAYS PIONEER REALTOR

The increasing demand for real estate, oil properties and building seems to have no end, according to J. F. Stanford, pioneer realtor of Glendale. Due to the fact that Mr. Stanford has probably built more houses than any other contractor in Glendale, he has established and enjoys a heavy business. Since M. J. Bicknell has joined Mr. Stanford as salesmanager the office has put over a number of very substantial realty deals, as well as sales in oil leases. Buildings under construction, contracts and sales for the last few weeks totaled well over the $100,000 mark. The office does not handle any oil stocks or units, dealing only in leases and oil land in Southern California. The future is looking very prosperous for the biggest year's business that they have ever had for the past ten years.

James H. Allen, of Congress Avenue, Rochester, N. It relieves at once and immediately after you start to take ALLENRHU the good work begins. It searches out uric acid deposits, dissolves the secretions and drives rheumatic poison out of the body through the kidneys and bowels. VERDUGO SCOUTS TO AID THOSE OF THE EAST

Executive Benner Calls on Them to Clothe Those of the Orient

The Boy Scouts of the Verdugo Hills District are undertaking the big job of helping to clothe their brother scouts in the Near East who are orphans. According to word received from Chief Scout Executive James E. West there are some 15,000 orphans who are of scout age and an attempt is being made to help in the orderly management of this enterprise by having the boys of scout age organized somewhat as they are in this country—in this way developing leadership and a greater sense of responsibility upon the part of these boys who may be the future leaders of their respective peoples.

Scout Executive Harold Benner has sent out a letter to every scoutmaster in the district asking them to co-operate in helping to put this big project over nationally.

All boys who have been scouts or who are now members are urged to take the old uniform that is either shrunk or faded to the next troop meeting and there make up a bundle to forward to the Near East committee. In addition to discarded uniforms athletic equipment can be used to good advantage.

THE WRIGHT LAW'S RIGHT

(Tune: "A Shelter in the Time of Storm")
By LOUISA M. HENDRICKSON

The Wright Law's right, in it abide—
The Supreme Court says it's true.
Relieves from ills that now betide,
The Supreme Court says it's true.

Chorus:
O, the Wright Law's right in our California land, our California land, our California land;
O, the Wright Law's right in our California land—
The Supreme Court says it's true.

A power by day, defense by night,
The Supreme Court says it's true.
No fears alarm, nor foes affright—
The Supreme Court says it's true.

(Chorus)

The evil forces 'round us beat—
The Supreme Court says it's true.
And from our stand we'll ne'er retreat—
The Supreme Court says it's true.

(Chorus)

O, Right divine; O, Law so dear—
The Supreme Court says it's true.
This law enforcement now so near—
The Supreme Court says it's true.

IT IS THERE TO STAY

By the life of Frances Willard, which no mortal can portray;
By the lives of ceaseless toilers of the "old pledge-signing day";
By the live of hopeless mothers whose belov'd had gone astray;
By a Royal Act of Congress backed by States in strong array—
In the Nation's Constitution, and it's there, there to stay.

Chorus:
It is there to stay! It is there to stay!
Till the stars shall sink in silence and the sun and moon decay,
Till the souls of men assemble in the final Judgment Day—
It is in the Constitution, and it's there, there to stay!

By the lives of faithful women who have fallen in the fray;
By the lives of all who've labored "casting up the King's Highway";
Byt the lives of sons and daughters crush'd and broken in dismay;
By the Court's Supreme Decision, sign'd and seal'd in legal way—
It is in the Constitution, and it's there, there to stay.

We have woven Prohibition, warp and woof in legal way,
By the lives of those who've given ALL humanity could pay;
By the lives of blighted childhood born to toil instead of play;
By Jehovah's Ultimatum, which the people MUST obey—
It is in the Constitution, and it's there, there to stay.

NOTES

Take Huntington Park car anywhere on Seventh St.; get off at City Hall; walk one block East.
Leave your grouches at home, if you have any; be considerate. Our conventions are getting large and hard to manage.
Wear your White Ribbon. Bring a notebook and pencil.
Come with a smile and a glad hand.

GLENDALE POST TO ATTEND L. A. RECEPTION

Plans were completed today by Glendale Post No. 127 of the American Legion to attend the big celebration given in their honor at Los Angeles, Wednesday evening, April 18, by La Societe des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux. Reports from the local Legion's office indicate that practically every Legionnaire in Glendale Post will attend the big show which their membership card will admit them to, free Sid Grauman and Alexander Pantages will have the largest group of stars and entertainers ever assembled for an ex-service men's entertainment. Mr. Grauman will personally direct the program.

Many high-up officials of the Forty-Eight will attend the festivity. Among them will be National Sous Chemin de Fer, Clarence Cronkite, Grande Chef de Gare, Herbert J. Simons and A. W. Smith, Chef de Gare of the Los Angeles County Voiture No. 47. All the American Legion commanders and officers of every Post in this county are also to be present at the big time. The Union League Club, 255 South Hill street, Los Angeles, will be the scene of action. Every white male American Legion member in the county has been invited and Sheriff Bill Traeger, one of the most popular of the 40-8 members, will have charge of the doors to see that only World War Veterans gain admittance. Local members having room in their autos to take a few of their buddies to the big show are asked to get in touch with Commander Chalmer Day of Glendale Post No. 127.

BUSINESS WOMEN TO HAVE REGULAR CATERER

Mrs. Florence Thompson, a comparatively newcomer in Glendale, has entered into an arrangement with the Business and Professional Women's Club to operate its dining room and will serve lunches, beginning Wednesday, not only to club members but to the general public—men as well as women.

Mrs. Thompson is a thoroughly experienced caterer, having for fifteen years managed a hotel in the Berkshire Hills of New England, a great resort for people of the Atlantic Coast. She retired from that to come to California to rest, but having rested the desire for active life has returned and she has entered into this engagement with the Business and Professional Women's Club.

The location is ideal, on South Maryland between Harvard and Broadway, the house having a charming outdoor setting.

The club will continue to use the house for its meetings as heretofore.

ALL FOOTHILL FOLKS TO GET TOGETHER

The Grandview P.-T. A. and the Foothill Improvement Association are uniting to entertain the people of the Grandview district Tuesday evening, April 24, at the Grandview school at 8 o'clock.

The program will conform to that of Community Service for the observance of "Play Week" throughout the entire nation, and will be directed by R. E. Tucker who is in charge of Community Service in Glendale.

The grounds will be lighted by a huge bonfire in charge of Charles Ellsperman, chairman; Mrs. T. P. Evans, H. W. Hollenbeck, A. G. Evans and E. H. Learned.

Mr. Learned and Mr. Hollenbeck, together with the boys of the "Notchers' Club," will be responsible for collecting material for the bonfire and will be glad to hear from persons who have material to donate.

The parking of autos will be in charge of Mr. Hollenbeck and his assistants.

The program will consist of community singing, led by Mrs. W. Q. Widdows, accompanied by Miss Mabel Cunningham; physical drills by pupils of the school to the music of the Brunswick on which the P.-T. A. has just made its final payment; and games in which all can join, led by a member of the Community Service Recreation Leaders' Club.

All residents of the district, parents and children, are invited and expected to attend and patronize the wienie roast which will follow the program.

CARRIE JACOBS BOND AT KINEMA

Carrie Jacobs Bond, noted song writer, whose compositions are sung and loved all over the world, is making personal appearances this week at the Kinema Theatre, Los Angeles, matinees only. The engagement of this internationally known musician is in the interests of "better music" and her daily recitals are the source of great pleasure to her admirers, many of whom have never before had the opportunity of hearing her sing and play her own compositions.

Mrs. Bond rarely appears in song recital as she finds it too fatiguing, and the Kinema is justly proud that this gifted woman is honoring it this week by her appearance at the matinees.

She has chosen her program from her own songs, the best remembered of which is "A Perfect Day." In addition Mrs. Bond will sing a number of new songs, some of them not yet published.

Her appearance on the Kinema stage furthers the message of the photoplay, Edwin Carewe's "Mighty Lak' a Rose," in which the power of good music in the building of character is demonstrated.

SPANISH WAR VETERANS AND AUXILIARY TO MEET

The members of the Spanish War Veterans and auxiliary will hold a joint meeting at the K. of P. hall Wednesday night at 8 o'clock. The auxiliary members will serve refreshments and a pleasant social evening is anticipated. All Spanish war veterans and their wives, whether members of the organization or not, are invited to be present.

THE MARKETS

[By Associated Press]

Mixed price movements took place at the opening of today's stockmarket, but the main tendency was upward. New high records for the year were established by Dupont at 133¼, Canadian Pacific at 152 5-8 and General Motors at 16 3-8, while Stewart Warner Speedometer duplicated its previous top at 123½, the net gains ranging from fractions to one point. Most of the other motor and motor accessory shares also moved to higher ground. Sporadic selling again broke out in the oil group.

Prices hardened after the early selling orders had been absorbed. Trading in rails was more active with Soo common leading the advance with a gain of 1 1-4. Substantial fractional improvement was registered by New York Central, Southern Railway common and preferred, Union Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio, Rock Island and Reading. Stewart Warner established a new top at 124 1-4, up 1 3-4, and Dupont extended its gain 2 1-4. Gains of 1 to nearly 2 points also were established by United States Steel, Punta Alegre and Cuba Cane Sugar preferred, Reynolds' Spring, Marland Oil and International Harvester. Crucible and Iron Products were conspicuously heavy. Foreign exchanges opened easier, demand sterling being quoted around $4.65 and French francs dropping 3 points to 6.61.

FEW BIRTHS IN BURBANK

Only Four Registered at the City Hall in April

The long legged stork must be very busy flying in some other part of the country than Burbank, for with the month of April more than half gone, there are only four birth certificates filed with F. S. Webster, city clerk, at the city hall.

Monday, a certificate registering the birth of John Logan Pearson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Pearson of Glendale, born April 11, was filed.

Gilberto Gonzalez and Filberto Gonzalez, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Miguel Gonzalez, Fourth and Tejunga avenue, and Baby Takayoma, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Takumatso Takayama, were the names of the other babies born this month, whose births have been registered.

MUSIC MEMORY CONTEST SCRAP BOOK CLIPPINGS

"My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice"—"Samson and Delilah." Charles Camille Saint-Saens, born in France in 1835.

This is from the famous oratorio-opera, "Samson and Delilah." In its original form it is a contralto solo, considered by many to be the most beautiful contralto melody ever written. Delilah sings it to fascinate Samson, according to the Biblical story, which you all know.

It will be heard at the concert next Monday afternoon given by Mrs. Walter Fisher in the auditorium of the John Muir junior high school.

At the concert given next Friday evening for the public by the junior pupils of Mrs. Zefer Algotts Sparrow at the Edison building there will be several selections played from the music memory contest list.

Helen Olson will play Mozart's "Minuet in F," Marguerite Schiss will play Chaminade's "Scarf Dance," Cecilia Mae Fischer will play "Minuet in G," by Beethoven and Margaret Wood will play "Anitra's Dance," from Grieg's "Peer Gynt" suite. There will be other selections from composers whom you have studied. Barbara Moore, Olivia Fainot, Rhoda Moore, Temple Matthews, Jeanette Blanchard, Russell Reed, Nora Greenman, Isabel Moore, Dorothy Sproule and Frances Riley are other pupils who will play.

GOES SEVENTEEN MILES FOR AID

Night Patrol Officer Montague of Burbank Enjoys Joy Ride

"Sixteen miles and one more to go," said Monty Montague, Burbank night patrol, as he trudged along Ventura boulevard, feeling the heat of the sun's rays Sunday noon. In the meantime, Mrs. Montague and her little sister Margaret were sitting in the car by the side of the road 16 miles away, wondering what kept Monty.

The Montagues had gone for a little pleasure ride. They rode considerable distance. Just as they began to think it was time to go home to get lunch a tire was punctured. They had no tools.

Not knowing how far away help might be, Officer Montague started out. He says, after he had covered 17 miles he got help.

Now they are planning for another joy ride next Sunday. But they may not go on a deserted road at a time when traffic is dull.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN AND HIS DEVOTION TO THE CONSTITUTION

By THELMA GIBBS

"Mr. Chairman, Honorable Judges, Fellow Students:

"Abraham Lincoln said: 'Let every American pledge his life, his property and his sacred honor to the support of the Constitution. Let reverence for the Constitution be breathed by every American mother to the lisping babe that prattles on her lap; let it be written from the pulpit, proclaimed in legislative halls, and enforced in courts of justice.'

"Lincoln knew and appreciated the value of the American Constitution, and what it has done for the nation and its people. From a nation conceived in a revolution, and that little more than a century behind, with a rapid material growth and enormous immigration, may naturally be expected swift political changes and turbulent legislation.

"But the Constitution enacted in 1789, based as it was on the best of laws, and customs of the old world, has acted as a buffer for the nation against rash or hasty change, and unfair legislation. As a result the nation has developed a prudent and conservative national life, an example to older and more experienced nations, who, shall we say, have not profited as well as they might by their own teachings. Not only that, but it has given the people a reverence for law and order and the Constitution of which they are the authors.

"What Lincoln preached, he practiced. As a young man, while he was running for his first political office, as a representative of the general assembly of Illinois, he put the will of the people as expressed in the Constitution, above party politics, personal gain or ambition.

"Later, when he was offered the position of deputy by John C. Calhoun, Lincoln said: 'If I can be perfectly free in my political action, I will take the office, but if my sentiments, or even expression of them, is to be abridged in any way, I would not have it or any other office.'

"Lincoln as a young boy was an alien in a slave world—that district which surrounded his father's farm in Kentucky. Perhaps it was inherited, because his father, too, hated slavery; or perhaps it was the democratic soul of the boy who revolted at the idea of involuntary servitude. Certainly this hatred was in no wise diminished when, on a trip to New Orleans, the following incident took place:

"One morning as he was walking through the city with a party of friends, he passed a slave auction. A vigorous and comely mulatto girl was on the block and was being put through a thorough examination by the bidders; they pinched her flesh, and made her trot up and down the room to see how quick she was. The whole thing was so revolting to Lincoln that, moving away, he said in a passion of hatred, 'If ever I get a chance to hit slavery, I'll hit it hard!'

"He got his first chance to combat slavery when he debated at Peoria in 1854 against Douglas. Objecting strenuously to the Nebraska act which made it a moral right to enslave a man, he argued that slavery as a growing institution was a constant menace to a free country; that our forefathers rejected it or else treated it as a case of necessity; that slavery was only a fly in the ointment of American happiness and prosperity and the sooner it was removed the better for all concerned.

"But with all his hatred of slavery, Lincoln's loyalty to the Constitution came first. While practicing law in Illinois in 1850 he was often called upon to defend salve-owners, when the right of property in a slave was involved. Because, as he said, 'it is at present recognized by the Constitution, and we are bound by both duty and inclination to stick by that Constitution, in all its letter and spirit, from beginning to end.'

"Later, when this same problem of slavery was to threaten the Union and it was a question of amputating a limb or losing a life, Lincoln was to declare it a menace to the surety of the American commonwealth, and as a result it was finally struck from the Constitution.

"Meanwhile the South, growing restless over the controversy of slavery, and stirred by a few hotheaded politicians, began to talk openly of secession. South Carolina, a hot-bed of rebellion, opened the movement by sending circulars to governors of other states, and finally framed a government for herself, recalled her senators and appointed a cabinet. This was the signal for war.

"In the face of the storm, Lincoln was elected president and assumed command of the ship of state. A less courageous man might have quailed before the magnitude of the task, but not so Lincoln, for his chart was founded on constitutional principles, and a chart so based can not go wrong, as was proven when he piloted the ship of state safely through four years of civil war.

"On a bright afternoon in March, 1861, from the east portion of the capitol building, before a noted assemblage, Lincoln took the oath of office and delivered his first inaugural speech, concerning the Union against secession, in which he held that the union of the states was perpetual, that no state could legally withdraw from the Union, and that such acts were revolutionary and unconstitutional. He reminded them of his oath to preserve and defend the Constitution, and promised that in so far as he was able, the laws of the Union would be executed in the south as well as the north.

"Even as the clouds of war were gathering, and within a few short weeks, with the capture of Fort Sumter war had actually begun. With this final appeal for the Union without bloodshed, he now set to work to preserve it at any cost.

"Lincoln knew the responsibility involved, and the powers and limitations of his office as president. Braving public opinion, and congressional censure, he assumed the position of a temporary dictator while the war lasted. The nation as a whole must come first; if the supremacy of the republic cannot be secured in any other way, then it must be by evading or overriding the Constitution. This is what men meant when they said they would break the Constitution in order to preserve it. In the following letter to a Mr. Hodges, Lincoln gives his opinion of this power:

"'My oath to preserve the Constitution imposed on me the duty of preserving, by every indispensable means, that government, that nation, of which the Constitution was the organic law. Was it possible to lose the nation and yet preserve the Constitution?

"'I felt that measures otherwise unconstitutional might become lawful by becoming indispensable to the preservation of the nation. Right or wrong, I assumed this ground, and now avow it. I could not feel that to the best of my ability I had even tried to preserve the Constitution if, to save slavery, or any other minor matter, I should permit the wreck of the government, country and Constitution altogether.'

"This explains where Lincoln got his power to suspend the writ of habeas corpus and to issue his proclamation declaring all slaves free. Some men are born to be leaders. To such men is given the opportunity to so order their lives that they may be an example to future generations. All leaders do not accept this opportunity, but who shall say that Lincoln was one of these? God in His infinite wisdom chose this child of the open west to pilot the nation through the greatest crisis of its existence. Then through the years of the war He guided, sustained and comforted its pilot. With such a Master, Lincoln has developed into the greatest example of American history. We cannot all be examples, but we can all pattern our lives after another whose merits are so great that they can be copied. We would all do well to cultivate something of Lincoln's patience, his bigheartedness, his loyalty and firmness.

"Look who is coming down the road of life. It is the Great American, the man who dared face state opposition in order to preserve this Union. See, he is tall and gaunt of figure, and his face is not beautiful, but the features are filled with a martyred kindness—the sufferings of the South, even more than the passions of the North, are written on that sad visage.

"Look! He walks with sure, firm step, and his footprints are stamped indelibly on our generation, and the sands of eternity. See, he does not waver though the sands may be treacherous and the way long. And what is this invisible force that guides and inspires him, the force that has enabled this child of the common people to rise to such noble heights?

"It is the Constitution—the gift of our forefathers, the guiding star of the Union. Would we, too, rise to heights of political fame? Would we, too, stamp ourselves indelibly on our age and the ages of all time to come? Then let us follow in the footsteps of the Great Commoner, the man whose guiding star was the Constitution of these United States."

ILLITERACY IN CALIFORNIA

A news dispatch carries the information that there are in California 95,592 illiterates unable even to write their own names in any language. No particular comfort is to be found by comparing these with other statistics, and reaching the conclusion that California is no worse than its neighbors, or better than some of them. The figures constitute an indictment and a disgrace. In this land of free schools there is no acceptable excuse for tolerating the blight of such ignorance. Illiteracy in an adult of approximately normal mind should be regarded as a threat to the public safety, and treated with the firmness applied to crime. In a sense, it is a crime. It holds the victims in mental serfdom. It impairs the usefulness of their citizenship. It keeps the door of knowledge closed to them. They are as the blind, wandering aimlessly through a gallery of art. Almost inevitably they remain at the plane of ineptitude and stupidity.

Compulsory education has been found necessary. It is supposed to be enforced, but it seems not to have been. The mistake in regard to it, aside from the absence of enforcement, is that it is applicable only to children. The man or woman, arriving at maturity without knowing how to read, remains a child save as to years alone. Such an individual merits attention for his or her sake, and for the sake of society, and should be made to learn to read; penalized for failure. Many of the illiterates are native born Americans, the more shame to the educational system. Those of foreign birth cannot be expected to understand the constitution, or to catch in any degree the spirit of Americanism while they are unable to read. Certainly to bestow upon them the boon of citizenship must be regarded as an error most gross.

The elimination of illiteracy ought to be a matter of but a few years. A generation hence, with proper attention paid to the matter, there need be no trace of it left.

FORD ON HIS WAY

To mention the fact that the progressive party of Nebraska has formerly endorsed the presidential candidacy of Henry Ford, is not to enter upon a discussion of politics. It is merely to record an incident of at least passing interest, and probably not without significance. Ford as an individual may be regarded almost as unique. The enterprise in which he has been engaged has made him one of the richest men in the world. He had no educational advantages. He had no backing save that he won through his own energy. He has been kind to employees, liberal, and concerned for their welfare. His methods have been condemned by other employers, this strengthening him in the esteem of those benefiting by his course.

Mr. Ford, when on the witness stand made an averment of his own ignorance concerning many matters on which a schoolboy might have been expected to be informed. The fact came out that he knew nothing of history, even of the history of his own country. Concerning literature his knowledge was a blank. There was even a shade of doubt raised as to his literacy, and from the minds of some, this doubt never has been dispelled. When he has stated his views on finance, they have been startling only because emanating from a person of means. They might have fitted the most radical among the populists of decades ago. He has, through a paper owned by him, waged a bitter racial war, for no purpose that it has been possible to discern. Early in the late war, Ford decided that hostilities must stop, and so he sent a ship to Europe, with a curicus cargo of pacifists, pro-Germans or mere cranks, with this object in view. The war did not even pause.

Yet with all his peculiarities, Ford is an outstanding character, a man of big affairs, and so constituted that any campaign in which he figures, is sure to be more interesting because of his presence.

THE AMERICAN SOLDIER

Recently a high official of the army pinned to the breast of Captain Timothy Bonny of Long Beach, the Distinguished Service Cross. The award was made by reason of the conspicuous bravery of Bonny in action in France. And Bonny, at the time this honor was ceremoniously accorded, was a private citizen, devoted to the ways of peace. There are many of his type. Rising to the highest level of patriotic duty they threw themselves spiritedly into the business of becoming soldiers. The war over, they laid aside all thought of military activity, and took their places again in the ranks of the great civic body.

As the war recedes the remarkable achievements of the American army stand out more clearly. At the time of the armistice it had become the most potent army the world ever had seen. It did all it was asked to do, and more. The citizen soldier felt that he was fighting for a high purpose. He felt also that withdrawal came before the purpose had been fully accomplished. He had not repined at peril and hardship, but he repined that having been started on a task he was denied the right to complete it. That the soldier was right has been fully evidenced by the situation of the world. The peace he had hoped for, never was established, and it might have been established.

To see the bravery of an individual recognized is pleasing. Yet there were countless exhibitions of bravery that are not and could not have been brought to public attention. The American army was made of hero material. Its superior quality is shown quite as much by the completeness with which it went back into private life, took up the broken threads where tasks had been abandoned, and resumed its daily toil.

Various naval authorities assert that the battleship would be useless against an air fleet. At the same time all governments are holding to battleships. If the experts are right, a lot of prospective junk is being nursed along at great expense.

Producers of oil close to the beaches need not be surprised at public indignation when waste from the wells is permitted to run to the surf devoted to bathing. Oil is a useful commodity. If the wells bring out more than can be shipped immediately, or stored to good advantage, it surely is not too much to ask that the surplus be impounded.

The Bawl of the 'Scared Male'

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

We all adore tradition and lest tradition fail the female of the species must not maul the sacred male. But she did it, brothers, she did it; and, my word, how the mauled is screeching. It was Pennsylvania, politician ridden and tradition bowed, where the drubbing took place and the women did it.

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

They just went out, contrary to all precedent and all advice from political bosses and calmly and effectively at the last election pulverized the state political machine. In Pennsylvania the political machine happened to wear the republican brand, but it was just as much man made as the Mississippi political machine which bears the democratic brand—and is likewise man made.

It was hard enough for that machine, which its devotees looked upon as both sacred and invincible, to endure losing; but to be thrashed by the women was too much, oh much too much. And so the men decided it was time to do something about it.

Seeing that the women have the vote, the only available weapon had to be moral suasion; and when the defeated politicians had finished treating their blisters and rubbing their barked political shins they selected as spokesman a psychologist from the University of Pennsylvania, embalmed in tradition, and gave him a megaphone.

"Go to it" they prayed, "and shoo the women back into the sacred preserves of the home. The cradles are suffering. It's a pity to have neglected and sour food inside the homes when there is such a generous allowance of heartaches and sour stomachs outside."

Dr. Arthur Holmes sounded the tocsin, and when he had the feminine he pointed to tradition and masculine vanity, all messed up and aching, and advised the women to get back to doing "womanly things."

"Don't imitate the men," purred the specialist on psychology. "It's an obsession. Return to the sphere where you can have all the liberties you please"—(sic)—"If women must fight let them use the weapons which were the birthright of Mother Eve. They are dangerous enough and women can do more by shooting glances from their eyes than by playing with long range rifles."

Will somebody please bring the aromatic spirits of ammonia?

And while you are on the job please bring the antiphlogistine for the political bruises of the mortified bosses.

The women will go back to their homes, all right, but it will be their sally outside the home walls which they must thank for sweeter, cleaner cities, a better state and a better man at the head of the state.

I'll bet Gifford Pinchot is not crying for a return to the inner precincts of the zenana for the women. Not he.

Governor Pinchot has devised so many new and effective weapons for routing ancient abuses from the soil of Pennsylvania that those who used to worship tradition are stunned and bewildered. The liquor men are on the run and the alarmed fossils are wrapping their brittle bones in cotton batting.

The constabulary of Governor Pinchot will keep the bootleg army hustling to avoid jail. Now, who will sail into the University of Pennsylvania and raise the banner of progress?

The honorable professor who teaches the boys in the university should pause a bit and catch up with the psychology of his day.

"Eye enticing" is a weapon of slavery and it never got a woman justice. It only got her favors in return for sex privileges, and it was a rotten weapon, used only in the absence of a better. The women of America are done with it forever. Thank God, and the real men who were his instruments of emancipation.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

LEARNING TO SPELL

(Find the error in this article.)

It may not be the most agreeable task to go alone into a gymnasium for the purpose of pulling the chest weights, swinging the Indian clubs, and pushing the dumb-bells an hour a day. Although the results would be unquestionably beneficial, the lonesomeness and monotony would be discouraging. Still, if one can exercise systematically in this manner, there is no argument against it, despite the fact that most of us prefer to mix our exercise with play or take it in company with congenial companions.

So it is with learning to spell. Obtain a comprehensive list of troublesome and useful words and study them systematically, a certain number each day. Conduct your spelling exercises in this manner if you can.

A more interesting method, however, would be to observe correct spelling in all of your reading; still better, to look up words in the dictionary whenever you are writing. Analyze a word. For example, note that in the word accommodate there are two c's and two m's. Let your efforts have immediate, practical value and you will be surprised at the results.

Vocabulary

"He instigated the attack."

"What do you mean?"

"Just that he provoked the attack; he incited, roused, stirred them up to attack."

Queries

Oswald Tower, New York: "A says, 'Tomorrow will be Saturday'; B says, 'Tomorrow is Saturday'. Will you kindly tell me through your column who is correct?" Answer: Both. A is precisely correct. B's phraseology is supported by authorities and usage.

J. C. M., Chicago: "Kindly insert in your 'Right Word' column the correct use of shall and will. Kindly give rule. I am one who is interested and grateful." Answer: This is a subject that necessitates considerable discussion and is consequently being published in "The Right Word" in instalments. "The" should have preceded the word rule in the foregoing query.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

JAMES W. FOLEY

When the government of our toverisches Lenine and Trotzky is opposed, the opposers are not imprisoned.

They are killed.

Not to say murdered.

Although that might be the better word.

* * *

Lenine and Trotzky believe in keeping a firm hand on the government.

No matter how many killings it takes to insure the possession.

There is no hesitation about the infliction of the death penalty.

* * *

Government means many things to Lenine and Trotsky and the horde of followers who batten and fatten on the land and its people.

It means luxury and property and ease and authority and power and all of the things they profess to stand against.

* * *

And to retain control of the government killing is often necessary.

And there is no hesitation about it.

It is swift, sure and certain.

For by killing off all conscientious objectors to the government, the possession of the government is sure.

* * *

It would be interesting to know the number of assassinations and killings and murders since the seizure of power by the Lenine and Trotsky government.

And the knowledge might horrify many of our defenders of communism and Leninism and Trotskyism.

In this country there were many opponents of the government in the war.

There were those who opposed by spying and all that.

There were those who opposed by open preachment against the government.

There were those who opposed by "conscientious objection."

And there were those who opposed by methods that came near the treason.

* * *

If we had followed the example of our Russian reds, executions would have been numerous.

The government would have granted no mercy.

Death would have been the penalty for opposition to the government.

* * *

That is the Russian practice under the present regime.

Perhaps it is the only method by which the Lenines and Trotskys can retain control.

But when these autocratic murderers come into the court of international law asking recognition they should come with clean hands.

Not with hands stained with the blood of countless victims.

* * *

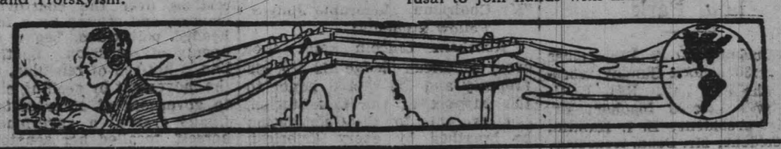
It is time this country took account of the nature of the present rulers of Russia.

It is time for an ending of maudlin and slobbering sentimentality toward a government that rests upon murder.

It is time to declare that murder is murder, even when it is done in the name of brotherhood.

* * *

Secretary Hughes is again to be congratulated for his clear, logical and righteous refusal to join hands with murderers.



Songs of the Poets

Love and Life—By Jaulie Mathilde Lippman

"Give me a fillet, Love," quoth I,
"To bind my Sweeting's heart to me,
So near a chance of earth or sky
Shall part us ruthlessly:
A fillet, Love, but not to chafe
My Sweeting's soul, to cause her pain;
But just to bind her close and safe
Through snow and blossom and sun and rain:
A fillet, boy!"
Love said, "Here's joy."

"Give me a fetter, Life" quoth I,
"To bind to mine my Sweeting's heart,
So death himself shall fail to pry
With Time the two apart:
A fetter, Life, that each shall wear,
Whose precious bondage each shall know.
I prithee, Life, no more forbear—
Why dost thou wait and falter so?
Haste, Life—be brief!"
Said Life, "Here's grief."

TRAVEL WITH A PURPOSE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THE Music Travel Club of America has undertaken to plan for musicians their summer trip to Europe in such a way as to make their visit musically valuable.

This club says that musical students and musical enthusiasts who have gone to Europe for a summer have been at a disadvantage. Through lack of a well-defined program they have missed much of that musical life in Europe which might have been of benefit to them. The club was formed to remedy this defect.

Musicians this summer may have the opportunity of making a complete survey of European life and history, to attend to the summer festivals, and get some intelligent idea of the range of music in Europe at the present day, an idea which independently it would be difficult to obtain.

Travel in Europe is a distinct asset to culture. Those who can afford it should not omit it. And a great many can afford it who say they cannot.

Living in Europe is not so expensive as it is at home and travel is well organized.

It is possible to go about economically and yet to be very comfortable.

Many a young man and young woman has managed to spend a delightful summer vacation with a bicycle, especially in England, France, Germany and Italy.

Of course, America is the greatest country on earth and all that sort of thing, but the fact remains that from the standpoint of culture America is still a colony of Europe.

We may have the thirst for culture, a thirst even greater than that of Europeans, but we do not yet have the things of culture in that abundance which is found upon the other side. Such things come only with years.

It has often been said that a year of travel in Europe is educationally equal to two years in college at home. This is particularly true if one is seeking that sort of education for which the great works of art are necessary.

And in travel, as in other things, co-operation is valuable. There is a certain pleasure in independent wanderings, but there are distinct advantages in having a number of fellows along who are interested in the same things.

A program is also important. It is well enough to go about looking curiously at whatever we may happen to see, but we do not get the best results from travel unless we have some sort of schedule and plan.

Thousands of Americans visit Europe every summer. To many of these it is merely a lark. But there are many others who are intelligent enough to wish to combine the pleasure of visiting new places with the advantages that come from a bit of study and orderly investigation.

If the many tourist companies whose only appeal is to provide change and amusement for sightseers are successful, there is no reason why clubs or societies should not be helpful whose purpose is to combine diversion with a constructive program.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

USEFULNESS IN OLD AGE

[Chicago Journal of Commerce]

One of the strongest appeals of intellectual vocations, and we hold business to be one of the most important of them, is that in them a man's usefulness may extend beyond the age of three-score and ten. There is a professor in a Vermont university who has taught youth for fifty-four years, incidentally serving the business interests of his state by learned reports on injurious insects and on the marble, slate and granite industries of Vermont. As state geologist, Professor George H. Perkins, of whom we are writing, for twenty years contributed to the information of the state's industrial forces.

Only one true cause for retirement from business or professional life exists, and it is not the accumulation of a fortune. Only infirmities incident to old age make retirement advisable. George F. Baker will be eighty-three years old next month. He is the former president and present chairman of the board of the First National bank of New York; is president of one railroad and a director in a dozen others; a trustee in several corporations; and a director in the United States Steel Corporation and the Pullman company. All these responsible positions he holds to the great advantage of all stockholders in the companies concerned, when twenty-three past the usual retirement age of sixty. A remarkable and highly useful man he is, one of the many in the country who have done much to give all business the professional morale it enjoys today.

In ancient times old men were regarded as fit for counsel only. Today they are full of action as well—in business as in the professions.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

The other night a man was summoned to step out of the automobile in which he had been seated with a girl. The attitude of the stranger who made the demand, suggested that robbery was contemplated. The eventuation proved another purpose. As the girl still sat in the machine, trembling with fear, the stranger shot her escort, and went away. The victim of the shooting may live and may not. What his own wishes are in the matter is not stated.

HENRY JAMES.

Nothing but another of the sordid triangles. The man had a wife and child at home; another baby expected soon. His wife thought he was out on business. The girl thought him single. What was the thought of the fourth equation, the fellow with the pistol, who had no right in a correctly constructed triangle, anyhow, will not be known until the police have interviewed him. So far he has managed to avoid interviews. Possibly, instead of being a robber at all, he is a reformer, and a believer in direct action. It may be he deems it a duty to woo the erring back to the ways of propriety. Perhaps he is in love with the girl, perhaps indignant for the neglected wife.

However, those details are of minor consequence. The main fact is that emphasis is laid anew on the knowledge that the married man who does his courting on a bachelor basis, is taking a long chance. Moreover, whatever happens to him, he hasn't a ghost of a chance to win sympathy.

* * *

The rank outsider, whose knowledge of sports is most academic, is puzzled by the treatment that falls to Charlie Paddock, he of the flying feet. Paddock can run, run faster than anybody else; nobody is disputing his ability. But the A. A. U. informs him and the world that he is not to be permitted to run. Why not? Why this seemingly gratuitous butting in? One might guess, not rashly, that there is a dog in the manger.

The Olympic games are to be held in Los Angeles in 1932. Perhaps the A. A. U. will be in kindlier mood then. That, however, is a long time for a young fellow "rar'ing to go" in this year of 1923 A. D. to be asked to wait.

* * *

There is considerable discussion in school circles of Los Angeles touching the admission of certain publications to the library. Some of the publications mentioned are distinctly and habitually disloyal. That is to say, they not merely are un-American, but they breathe the spirit of an alien hatred for this government.

The plea for admission of the magazines is that the material in them is needed in debate. Quite so. If a student were speaking to the question "Resolved, That the American Republic Should Be Overthrown," and supporting the affirmative, he would have to look somewhere for his arguments, and naturally would look in the publications regularly setting forth such doctrine.

The actual cost of some of the gowns sold to Americans in Paris at $1000 is stated to be $5.30. The information is given by striking sewing girls, who work on the making of these gowns but cannot earn enough by so doing to keep body and soul together or keep either of them clean.

Allowance must be made for their natural prejudice. This may be done without damaging the theory that Americans buying dresses in Paris often get badly stung. It mars their happiness to be told about it.

* * *

The chemist who says that he knows how to make gold out of silver has to be regarded as a liar. It is too bad. One would be glad to be able to believe him, but precedents forbid. Countless chemists have made similar claim, and never one has been sustained even in part by a glimmer of truth.

It is certain, also, that if a chemist could work this transmutation, he would busy himself in doing it.

* * *

Indignation in Europe over the fact that Americans have made a business deal with Turkish interests, seems not to subside. The idea of letting Americans have that which Europeans wanted, evokes expressions of warm disapproval.

Usually when people undertake to do business in a country, they get the proper authority from the government of that country and no other. If Americans chose to invest capital in France, it never would occur to them that the permission of Turkey would be necessary.

* * *

Now they are trying to place the blame for the Herrin riots on this peace official or that. What's the use of making any fuss now? The riot really amounted to nothing. Only twenty-three were killed, and the men who killed them have been acquitted in open court.

This acquittal branded the butchery as legal, proper and commendable. But perhaps they want to fix responsibility so as to pin a medal on the breast of the responsible.

WATCHING THE PARADE

BY JOHN PILGRIM

The kid—who has been called the kid for years, although when he strips he looks about the size of a side of beef hanging in the cold storage room—leaves tomorrow for a distant state and his first business venture. His mother brought him into the major's room for a few moral reflections. You know how mothers are. They always want their infants to start in life burdened with good advice.

"I didn't know anything about his consarned business," grunted the major.

The major is an old Indian fighter. He began as a buck private and worked up in the army at a time when buck privates were supposed to be seen by but never in the commissioned ranks. So much of his bodily structure was hacked off by savages of one sort and another that he finally went into a more peaceful profession. The kid's mother persisted.

"Well," the major grunted, after reflection, "tell him to eat every time he gets a chance." He paused for more thought. "And to keep his canteen full."

The kid's mother thought that was mere levity and the major did not free her mind of this error. But in thinking it over it's fairly easy to see what the old gentleman was driving at. No one can tell in business, any more than in Indian fighting, just when the unexpected surprise will be waiting behind a bush. The man who is well provisioned—who is not apt to go hungry or thirsty, so to speak—is not in the danger that dogs the steps of the careless and improvident. A few hundred dollars to the youngster just starting in business may mean to him what the full canteen did when Chief Geronimo did a lively trade in scalps down near the border.

The kid saw the point. He decided not to have his tailor make the dinner coat he had almost decided on.

"Of course," said the kid, "Old Blatz would wait. But I'd have to pay him in the end. And it might be that the money would be more needed somewhere else."

The kid's mother is rankling about it. She says there is nothing more important to a young business man than clothes.

LITTLE BIRD DID NOT GIVE AWAY SECRET WEDDING

Marriage Is Kept Secret From Friends and Parents for Three Weeks

Friends of Frank J. Miller, 228 W. Mariposa avenue, and Miss Anna J. Brower, of Los Angeles, who have many acquaintances here,, will be surprised to hear of the secret wedding which took place in Santa Ana three weeks ago yesterday, Judge Cox reading the ceremony. Miss Brower is now Mrs. Miller, and not until Sunday did the parents and relatives of either party hear the little secret so carefully guarded by the newly married pair.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller, nee Brower, have known each other for about a year, and although the wedding was imminent, the parents of neither expected the ceremony to take place for several months. But while on a pleasure trip to the beach the couple decided to hasten the ceremony, drove to Santa Ana, looked up a justice ,and were quietly married. Both returned to their families and nothing was said to give either family an inkling of the secret until the bombshell announcement was hurled upon them Sunday.

Mrs. Miller was a chum of Miss Helen Miller, secretary to Superintendent Harwood at Central school. They met at the Sawyer School of Secretaries, and later Miss Miller introduced her friend to her brother Frank. Since that time they have been steady companions, the romance culminating in the secret wedding.

Mr. Miller is in charge of the press work for one of the Los Angeles newspapers. Mr. and Mrs. Miller will reside with Mrs. Miller's parents in Los Angeles for about a month until they locate a home of their own.

LOCAL REALTORS TO ATTEND LONG BEACH MEETING

The Eagle Rock Realty board members will attend the all-day conference to be held in the Hotel Virginia at Long Beach, on Saturday, April 21, in a body. President Johnson stated at the last meeting of the board that this convention is one thing which no realtor can well afford to miss.

"Discussions are bound to arise that will clear up doubtful points that have existed in the minds of many dealers through years of work. The real estate game is a big game with so many phases that it is difficult for anyone to ever get all the details clearly in mind, in other words to know everything about the business.

Those present to take part in the conference will benefit by the experience of some of the oldest and biggest realty men in the country. Discussions will arise, and matters be explained at this convention that will be of vital interest to real estate operators."

The day will be filled with activity and interest, and not alone is it the most beneficial thing to do, but also the duty of every realtor to attend this convention, according to President Johnson. There will be a number of banners, and two dozen badges purchased by the local organization, to make an effective showing in Long Beach.

THE ANTI-CIGARETTE LEAGUE WORK TO BE TOLD

FOUR NEW BOOKS WORTH WHILE AT THE LIBRARY

Four splendid new books of entirely different types have been added to the local library.

"The Mind in the Making," the relation of intelligence to social reform, by James Harvey Robinson, is of the deeper class of reading, instructive and highly entertaining. The author is a well-known historical student, who, as one of his friends once said, is more interested in the future than in the past. He studies the past for the sake of the future. His chief attention has been devoted to the rise and fall of ideas rather than kingdoms, the comings and goings of beliefs and opinions. In this book he treats the past of the human mind with a view to promoting its further expansion. The mind of man is evidently still in the making, and historically viewed, has as yet realized but few of the infinite possibilities before it. The book deals, in short, with what H. G. Wells calls "the race between education and catastrophe."

"The Innocence of Father Brown," by Gilbert K. Chesterton, is reviewed by critics as the cleverest variant of Sherlock Holmes ever written. Father Brown is a little Roman Catholic priest whose innocent and rather stolid looking face serves as a mask which enables him to ferret out all sorts of criminals. He has a penchant for delving into the mysterious and displays acute mental acumen in the solution of these mysteries and in tolerantly divesting his detached sinners of their sins. The plots are ingenious, and effective in their endings.

"Nights and Days on the Gypsy Trail," by Irving Brown, is one of those artistic travel stories which rival fiction in interest. Few people know more about gypsies than that they are a picturesque race wandering over the earth. Irving Brown has been living with gypsies, and this true account of his adventures among those proud and reckless people is as amazing and revealing as Romany Rye and others of George Borrow's gypsy chronicles.

BOWERS - HADLEY LITIGATION IS TERMINATED

The case brought by Durant Bowers of Eagle Rock against Rev. John Hadley, for $125 damages, last fall has been satisfactorily settled after many discussions and threatened further lawsuits. Mr. Bowers brought action to recover the extent of injuries sustained by his Ford when run into by Rev. Hadley who was driving on the wrong side of Brand boulevard in Glendale, according to the complaint of Mr. Bowers. When Mr. Bowers again figured in a lawsuit in the local court Saturday, it came out that the case had been satisfactorily settled. A judgment of $75 was originally awrded to Mr. Bowers, and the Rev. Hadley stated his intention to contest this settlement in the superior court. Rather than stand the added expense such a suit might bring in the higher court, Rev. Hadley agreed to settle the case for $40.

Some men seem to be happy only when they have a grievance.

The Once Over

BY H. I. PHILLIPS

THE PRESIDENTIAL OUTLOOK

The two major parties are beginning to talk about presidential candidates for 1924. Both sides are having a hard time locating a man the mention of whose name is immediately followed by war-whoops. At the last roll call the candidates lined up as follows:

REPUBLICAN
Warren Gamaliel Harding.
Colonel George Harvey.
Dr. Sawyer.
Tut-ankh-Amen.

DEMOCRATIC
William Jennings Bryan.
Henry Ford.
Will Rogers.
Al Smith.

* * *

Harding will be the presidential candidate again in 1924 if he desires to be, according to the experts. He is entitled to a renomination as a matter of precedent, and outside of that he has just got used to the Washington golf course. And then there is Laddie Boy to consider. Laddie Boy has done everything the party could expect of him, and has notified the leaders he wants another term.

* * *

President Harding is coming in for a lot of harsh criticism. The Democrats insist that when 1924 rolls around the United States will have been four years without a president.

* * *

The Republicans counter by saying that the country was sick of the "one-man-top" type of administration given under the Democrats and that it has felt great relief under a president who would let somebody else talk part of the time.

* * *

The first part of Wilson's administration and the first of Harding's had much in common. Wilson kept us out of war: Harding kept us out of coal. Both kept us out of patience from time to time, and out of spending money all of the time.

* * *

Warren has probably had less satisfaction out of his term than anybody, and if he had his own way would perhaps rather go back to Marion and devote his time entirely to the newspaper business. A man with a newspaper on his hands today can get all the trouble he is entitled to without becoming president.

* * *

It has been an American custom to punish a president with a renomination, however, and Warren will doubtless feel that it would be cowardly of him not to insist upon a second dose. Should he decide to pack his golf bag and quit, however, the situation will be considerably jelled. Messrs. Hughes, Hoover and Johnson are being mentioned again, but there is a suspicion that Colonel Harvey didn't come home from Great Britain for nothing.

* * *

America has never had a President in velvet knickerbockers, silk full-length stockings and shoes with buckles on them since early Colonial days. It would be quite a novelty. A candidate dressed this way would be sure to attract a large following, particularly if he carried a banjo, although there might be differences of opinion as to what they were following him for.

* * *

Colonel Harvey's chances would be the greater because of the fact the Democrats have no man in the party who could put on knee pants and look as funny.

* * *

On the Democratic side of the fence, Bryan will run again, of course, if only to the nearest exit. Henry Ford is said to want the nomination. If he doesn't get it he may bolt the party. But Hank's bolts don't hold any too well, as any flivver owner knows.

Henry can count on the support of every repair man in the country. If elected, Hen is going to erect a great repair plant at Muscle Shoals, to which every Ford voter owner can come with a horn and have a car put on it.

SOLID FIL FOR ASTORIA STREETS

[By Associated Press]

ASTORIA, Ore., April 17. Reconstruction of Astoria's streets has been undertaken on the solid fill plan, instead of the viaduct plan which the city commission first had approved. The change in the method of rebuilding the streets, which were wrecked in the fire of December 8, 1922, were made when property owners objected to the plan of leaving the space beneath the pavements unfilled.

According to the plan finally adopted concrete retaining walls are to be erected at the sidewalk lines and between the walls there will be placed solid fills of earth.

These fills will replace the wooden piling on which the streets were originally built. The wooden piling, with spaces beneath, was responsible for the rapid spread of the fire, which wiped out the business section. The piling had been constructed when the city was built out over the mudflats of the Columbia river in the early days.

LOST CHILD IS RECOVERED BY ROY M'CLAY

About 11 o'clock Saturday morning employees in the city hall were startled by the anxious story of a mother who had searched the neighborhood frantically for a little daughter eighteen months old, but to no avail. Over the telephone wires Mrs. Johnston of 147 North Peyton avenue, poured her story into the sympathetic ear of Mr. Roy McClay, who set out immediately down Colorado boulevard for the child's home, from which he intended to canvass the district for information as to her whereabouts.

Since the recent tragedy wherein two babies wandered away from home and were trapped in a deserted store while at play, every parent who loses track of her young offspring for more than an hour or two is frantic with fear of terrible consequences. And not wishing any similar occurrences here everyone connected with the search was more than anxious about the lost baby.

Mrs. Johnston had left a three-year-old boy and the little girl with an older son, who, tiring of the society of the younger generation, made off, leaving them to their own devices. The youngest set out to see the world, going west. She got just ten blocks from home when she decided that the trip was too long for little feet, and as she trudged wearily on, the six-cylinder power of her lungs was in no way affected by her fatigue.

So Mr. McClay, hurrying down Colorado boulevard, recognized the little girl coming slowly down the sidewalk immediately, from the minute description given him by Mrs. Johnston. Greatly relieved he picked up the screaming child, who immediately became quiet when she discovered that someone in the endless desert of sidewalks took an interest in her welfare. The child did not appear to recognize her home when Mr. McClay arrived there, and he at once was obsessed with the idea that perhaps he had been the victim of a mistaken identity case. Seeing the small boy on the steps Mr. McClay inquired anxiously if the little girl was his sister. Evidently the fact that his sister was either lost, strayed or stolen did not disturb his equanimity, for upon looking the tear-stained little girl over he replied laconically, "That's it," and went back to his meditation. But the mother, still out scouring the neighborhood, rounded a residence a block away, and recognizing her lost baby made a hysterical dash for home.

OXY STUDENTS ARE PROUD OF BIG VICTORY

The Occidental college students are greatly excited and immensely proud because of the victorious swath which their debate representatives—White McGee of Eagle Rock, and Herbert Sutton, of Los Angeles, are cutting through the territory of their eastern opponents. This team, making the largest 27-day tour ever undertaken by a similar institution, has won the first three consecutive debates entered, and these have all been won effectively. The three scores ranged, 3-0, 2-1, 2-1. The most recent debate with Brigham Young University of Utah, was the one debate in which the Oxy men expected to find it necessary to put up a strong verbal onslaught to overcome their opponents. Now only two more contests stand between the Occidental team and complete victory over all the schools which they meet on this trip, and from now on the Occidental team has the easiest side of the question.

Students at Occidental are already planning a rousing homecoming for their men.

EDISON AND FORD AT BURBANK JUBILEE

[By Associated Press]

SANTA ROSA, Calif., April 17.—Thomas A. Edison and Henry Ford have been invited to attend the Luther Burbank golden jubilee celebration here May 17-20, to be held in conjunction with a Santa Rosa prune festival. Many other notables have also been invited.

The jubilee is expected to be the occasion of a renewal of an old friendship between the inventor, the automobile manufacturer and the "plant wizard."

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—(United Press).—It cost Fred Thatcher, manager of a sporting goods house here, $60 to have a blessing placed upon his business.

A ragged bypsy woman entered his store, bought some camping equipment, and then asked Thatcher if she might bless the company's money to insure them greater profit.

The gypsy performed the ceremony over $200 in gold.

Half an hour later Thatcher counted the blessed money and found that $60 had disappeared.

PRIMITIVE ANGORA SHELTERS TURKISH NATIONAL COUNCIL

[By Associated Press]

ANGORA, Turkey, April 17.—Angora, the birthplace of the great nationalist movement which saved the Ottoman Empire from disintegration, is a quaint town of 35,000 inhabitants in the fertile heart of Asia Minor. Once known to Americans only as the traditional home of the Angora cat and Angora goat, the little city is today the center of a great Mohammedan revival and of the renaissance of Turkey. Its mud huts and rough-hewn stone houses, its narrow, dark streets and general air of primitiveness make it difficult for one to credit the assertion that this unpretentious capital holds the key to the peace of the world. "Yes, our town is a modest one," said a Turkish official to the correspondent, "but then even a greater movement than ours started in a stable."

Angora is 300 miles southeast of Constantinople, to which it is linked by an offshoot of the main line of the Bag dad railway from Eskishehr. It is 2,800 feet above the sea, and lies on a steep hill rising out of a shallow basin formed by a fringe of hills which ring it about at no great distance. The town itself is a curious contrast of east and west. Graceful minarets arise from among the red-roofed houses. Men and women in modern European dress contrast strangely with the unlettered peasantry in apparel which was worn in the time of Mohammed.

This is the land of the Turkish-speaking peasants, simple villagers and good soldiers. Their worst characteristic is their docile stupidity. They do anything their politicians and priests tell them. They do not reason for themselves. Untutored and primitive, they want little. Their food is simple, consisting of bread, milk, honey, eggs and fruit. They eat Angora goat, while the world uses its fine fleece. Oxen drag their flint-studded sledges over their grain, separating the chaff from the wheat, and draw their wagons on solid wooden wheels. The wooden plough and the hand scythe of 2,000 years ago have thus far resisted the inroads of modern American agricultural machinery. The countryside in winter and spring is cold and cheerless.

Angora is overcrowded, and part of the population is forced to live in tents, dugouts and box-cars. Mr. Emery, the American commercial observer, has his home and office in a merchandise car at the freight station. Whenever he wants to visit outlying parts of Turkey, the Kemalist hitches his car on to a passenger train.

American visitors accustomed to their stately legislative buildings at home would probably be amazed at the little stone and mortar building which the Turks call their grand National Assembly. The building was originally a village clubhouse. Inside are two waiting-rooms, and the room in which Mustapha Kemal receives his official guests.

Then there is the hall of the Assembly itself, which is about the size of the average American Sunday-school hall.

There is a small gallery where visitors may listen to the speeches, and each deputy or minister is seated at a diminutive desk preparing his notes and speeches. On the platform sits the president or vice-president at a table, ringing a bell after the fashion of the speaker of the house of representatives pounding his gavel. Here in Angora the bell is as little heeded as the gavel is in the American chamber when a deputy has something to say and insists upon being heard.

Last Saturday Judge Harry Chase officiated at his third wedding of the week when he united Miss Ida Alexander of 4051 Eucalyptus street, Los Angeles, and Joe Hollingsworth of the same city. Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Boydston of 4051 Eucalyptus street, friends of the bride, were witnesses.

YOUTH

I've read many a pamphlet and page,
I have sought through long tomes for the truth,
I have some of the wisdom of Age,
But it's not like the wisdom of Youth.
I have learned some of women and men,
And the ways of the world as it goes,
But it's not like the learning of ten,
And it is not the wisdom Youth knows.

I have sought the long hours through a book
For the spirit of gladness long lost,
But I sat in my youth by a brook
With the two little legs of me crossed,
And I had not a care in the world
And heaven was near me, in truth,
And the brook waters babbled and purled,
And I knew then the wisdom of Youth.

And I knew all the blossoms and flowers,
And the berries and bushes and trees,
And I dreamed in the shade through the hours
Where I heard the slow droning of bees;
And our dreams they were boyish and pure,
And the world was all gladness and truth,
And we thought all was joy to endure,
And that was the wisdom of Youth.

And there was naught of envy or guile,
And there was naught of hatred or greed,
And the brook and the meadow's green mile
Held most of the joy we might need.
So I lay down the tome at the page
Where I've sought for so long for the truth,
For I'm full of the wisdom of Age
But I wish for the wisdom of Youth.
